Keynote Session: A 21st-Century Education: Critical Skills for Every Student's Success

Code.org founder Hadi Partovi, finance expert Tim Ranzetta and Professor of Applied Mathematics Dr. Steven Strogatz shared a vision for preparing students for lifelong success with courses in computer science, data science and financial literacy. These critical skills are fast becoming an essential part of a 21st-century education, which every student will need to learn and employ during their school years and beyond.

"If kids are excited to learn something, they will go learn it.
Don't worry about the order we teach things, we need to worry about inspiring students to go learn!"

Hadi Partovi
