COMPETENCY BASED EDUCATION: HOW INNOVATIVE CHANGES TO THE EDUCATION SYSTEM CAN SUPPORT OPPORTUNITY YOUTH

TRACK: INNOVATION AND TECHNOLOGY

Homelessness, credit deficiency, pregnancy, and working to support their families are all issues preventing students in disadvantaged communities from finishing school. High school seat time requirements that place a greater emphasis on time, place, or pace of learning, rather than competency, when measuring success are preventing innovative and alternative education models from serving these "opportunity youth." Join the discussion about the issues opportunity youth face, programs that work, and how policy can change the landscape of graduation in America.

2:15 PM – 3:00 PM (JW GRAND 3-4)

HOW LOCAL GOVERNMENT LAWSUITS SUPERSEDE STATE LEGISLATIVE AUTHORITY: WHAT TO DO ABOUT IT

TRACK: RESTORING THE BALANCE OF GOVERNMENT

Local government lawsuits are popping up across the country over a wide range of policy issues from climate and labor, to data breaches and opioid use. Local governments are being pitched by enterprising plaintiffs' lawyers who offer to sue on behalf of the locality "for free." However, these lawsuits create more problems than they solve. Join us to hear from field experts about how poorly equipped local lawsuits are to address national problems, how much more expensive and less efficient lawsuits town-by-town will end up being to taxpayers, how these lawsuits, if successful, will force policy changes upon states without going through the state legislature, and how to manage this growing problem.

DO CONSERVATIVES REALLY SUPPORT SCHOOL CHOICE?

TRACK: INNOVATION AND TECHNOLOGY

School choice has long been considered one of the guiding tenets in conservative education reform. Why then, are so many conservatives shying away from this free-market alternative to traditional education? Join Robert Enlow, from EdChoice, and former state Senators Leah Vukmir and Carlin Yoder, for a discussion to better understand where conservatives and suburbanites stand on the issue. Audience members will walk away with a deeper understanding of school choice issues and potential solutions to education reform in the states.

3:15 PM – 4:00 PM (JW GRAND 3-4)

HOW TO MAKE POLICY REFORMS LAST: REFORM THE REGULATORY STATE

TRACK: RESTORING THE BALANCE OF GOVERNMENT

Unchecked administrative rule making is the biggest obstacle to achieving real reform on everything from health care to taxation, energy production and education. The scope, economic cost, and sheer power of the "Administrative State" – the agencies, commissions, and other bureaucracies that write and enforce regulations – has ballooned in recent years. That ever-expanding bureaucracy creates a drag on almost every policy area that ALEC members care about. Instead of the checks and balances and separation of powers that ensure democratic control, administrators have become lawmakers, law enforcers and even law interpreters. Join us to learn about how to thoughtfully roll back administrative overreach and establish best practices for government-wide regulatory reform and oversight.

THE NEW HOSTILE TAKEOVER: FREE MARKETS UNDER THREAT FROM ESG (COME LEARN WHAT THAT IS)
TRACK: RESTORING THE BALANCE OF GOVERNMENT

America was founded on the premise that all citizens should have the freedom to pursue economic opportunity. Yet despite our enduring history of entrepreneurship, a stealthy and steadfast campaign by activists is quickly undermining economic freedom. Today, companies must perform a delicate balancing act between growth and innovation on one hand and pressure to acquiesce on governance, environmental and social (ESG) issues. The result has been a Pandora's box, diminishing state pension growth, undermining the ability of corporations to retain the right leaders and harmfully instilling a business versus society mentality.

Please join The Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation for a critical and timely conversation on the influence of ESG on the free market and how good state policy can help mitigate the threat.

11:00 AM – 12:00 PM (303-304)

UNCONSCIOUS MIND: USING POLITICAL PSYCHOLOGY TO IMPROVE YOUR MESSAGING
ALEC TRAINING

Timothy C. Daughtry, PhD, Conservative Author and Speaker

Effective political messaging is all about controlling the moral high ground on an issue and denying that high ground to your opponent. In this presentation, Dr. Daughtry will show how political policies ultimately rest on the moral foundations of a culture and how the success of the left's "long march" strategy demands more effective messaging strategies from the center-right mainstream. Topics include:

- why facts and logic are not enough;
 - understanding and using the power of framing;
 - how left, right, and center make moral judgments in politics;
 - using the Drama Triangle to control the "deep narrative" of a campaign;
 - the 3R method for getting off defense and gaining the offensive;
