SCOPE OF SERVICES

Grant Title: STATE LANDS WILDLIFE HABITAT IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM

During the period July 1, 2013 – June 30, 2015, the New Hampshire Fish and Game Department and the Division of Forests and Lands, DRED, agree to cooperate in the performance of the following work for the Fish and Game Department under Federal Aid Grant W-11-D Project II, Upland Habitat Improvement, as currently authorized or amended with approval from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The objectives of the upland habitat improvement program are to

- (1) Collect and analyze forest and habitat inventory information to develop integrated multiple-use natural resource management plans, and
- (2) Implement management plans to sustain and enhance upland habitats for the production and maintenance of game and nongame species.

Fish and Game and the Division of Forests and Lands, DRED, agree to employ professional staff trained in forestry and wildlife who will actively participate, with other agency personnel, on an interdisciplinary state lands management team whose purpose is to plan and execute management activities on state lands consistent with the missions and policies of the represented agencies. This approach is designed to balance the variety of public demands on state lands while ensuring the sustained availability and protection of wildlife habitats and other natural resources, and the enjoyment of these lands by future generations.

Wildlife habitat and forest stand inventory data will be collected and analyzed for new state properties and others where inventories require updating. This data is the basis for developing integrated management plans, in cooperation with the State Lands Habitat Biologist, that include wildlife habitat, recreation, silviculture, rare elements, and cultural resource considerations. Critical and significant wildlife habitats will be identified and appropriate management determined. Within the context of the Federal Aid in Wildlife Restoration Program, properties will be managed as units at the landscape scale rather than as individual forest stands.

Upland habitat management activities involve manipulating vegetation to enhance wildlife food and cover. Timber cutting and other vegetation control operations will be used to accomplish planned habitat improvements. The forestry resources on Fish and Game lands will be managed to enhance carrying capacity for deer and other game and nongame species. The project specific Operations Planning Report will serve as the environmental assessment for the project and will be reviewed by the multidisciplinary state lands management team. Once approved, personnel of the Division of Forest and Lands funded through this agreement will lay out the operation, sell the timber by competitive bid and supervise active operations to ensure stated objectives are met.

Planting, prescribed burns, mowing and other mechanical methods may be used to maintain desirable habitats and control unwanted vegetation. Suitable access is a necessary component of habitat management and access roads will be repaired, maintained and protected.
