Ranked Choice Voting and Runoffs: Pros, Cons, Ways and Means
 Join us for breakfast as legislators debate ranked choice voting and runoff elections for general, primary and vacancy elections, and how these elections may be affected by other proposals such as open primaries and vote-by-mail elections. Bring your ideas and experience and be prepared to share.
 Moderator: Senator David Blount, Mississippi
 Speaker: Senator Mary Kiffmeyer, Minnesota
 Speaker: Representative Stephen Handy, Utah
 Speaker: Senator Cheryl Kagan, Maryland
 Speaker: Chris Hughes, Ranked Choice Voting Resource Center, Maryland
 Speaker: Rob Richie, FairVote, Maryland

 CLE available
Redistricting and the Law
 Moderator: Gina Wright, Reapportionment Office, Georgia
 10:15 am-11:15 am: The courts have spoken—but what did they say in 2019? The Supreme Court took on partisan map-making, and state courts continued to hear cases, too, based on racial, procedural and other grounds.
 11:20 am-12:00 pm: What does compliance with Section 2 of the National Voting Rights Act require? Map-drawers must consider race, but race can't be the predominant motive in decision-making. Learn from this introduction to racial voting analysis.
 Speaker: Jason Torchinsky, Holtzman Vogel Josefiak Torchinsky PLLC, Virginia
 Speaker: Kristen Clarke, Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, Washington, D.C.

2:00-3:15 p.m.
 Convention Center - 209
 CLE available
Redistricting Basics
 Moderator: Frank Strigari, Ohio General Assembly, Ohio
 2:00 pm-2:45 pm: What do leaders need to know about redistricting? How about rank and file members? And staff? This session provides the framework and access to great resources.
 Speaker: Alexis Stangl, Senate counsel, Minnesota
 2:45 pm-3:15 pm: State approaches to public input may be the coming thing this cycle. Input can come from meaningful hearings or from providing public map-making options. Learn your options.
 Speaker: Miles Rapoport, Harvard Kennedy School, Massachusetts

3:30-5 p.m.
 Convention Center - 104 ABC
Elections as Infrastructure in a Cyber World
 Moderator: Senator Gilbert Keith-Agaran, Hawaii
 3:30 pm-4:30 pm: It's been over two years since elections have been designated as critical infrastructure. How are elections being treated as critical infrastructure? What are states doing or what can they do to support this critical component of our governance?
 Panelist: Tre Hargett, Tennessee Secretary of State, Tennessee
 Panelist: Matt Masterson, Department of Homeland Security, District of Columbia
 4:30 pm-5:00 pm: What are post-election audits, what are RLAs, and how do you know what's best for your state? Enjoy a hands-on demonstration of an RLA using decks of cards.
 Panelist: Jennifer Morell, Democracy Fund, Washington, D.C.

5:30-6:30 p.m.	Universal Voting in America? An Exploratory Discussion
Convention Center - 104E	Sponsored by the Ash Center of the Harvard Kennedy School and the Brookings Institution This is an ancillary event and refreshments will be served.
	For more information, contact Miles Rapoport, miles_rapoport@hks.harvard.edu
	The midterm elections of 2018 surprised many observers by having such a dramatic increase in turnout, measured against 2014 and other midterm elections. But a closer look shows that the participation rate barely nudged over 50% and highlights just how low our expectations have become for voting participation.
	This ancillary session will cover the issues involved in universal voting, and whether this is an innovation that should be seriously discussed at the state and local levels in our country.

Wednesday, August 7

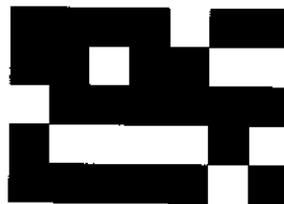

9-10:15 a.m.	Redistricting and Elections Committee Business Meeting
Convention Center - 104 D	Learn from NCSI's elections team about what's going on in the elections and redistricting universe (legislatively speaking). Hear from attendees about their favorite bills. Brief war stories welcome.
10:30-11:45 a.m.	Varied Voter Experiences: How One Size Doesn't Always Fit All
Convention Center - 104 ABC	Elections policies may work well in the aggregate, but do they have disparate effects on some voter groups? Any legislation can be considered in light of how it works for rural voters versus urban voters, Native American voters, voters with disabilities and perhaps other groups as well.
CLE available	Moderator: Senator Kathy Bernier, Wisconsin Panelist: Khelan Bhatia, AARP, Washington, D.C. Panelist: Michelle Bishop, National Disability Rights Network, Washington, D.C. Panelist: Jacqueline De León, Native American Rights Fund, Colorado Panelist: Tammy Patrick, Democracy Fund, Washington, D.C.
2-3:15 p.m.	The DMV: A Key Ally in Voter Registration
Convention Center - 104 ABC	Since the implementation of the National Voter Registration Act of 1993 (aka the Motor-Voter Law), motor vehicle bureaus have been key players in voter registration. In 2016, the U.S. Election Assistance Commission reported that a third of all new voter registrations originated at DMVs. Learn how states are modernizing the link between DMVs and voter registration.
CLE available	Moderator: Representative Gary Clary, South Carolina Speaker: Lisa Danetz, Democracy Fund, Massachusetts Speaker: John Lindback, Center for Secure and Modern Elections, Washington Speaker: Christy McCormick, U.S. Election Assistance Commission, Maryland
