You are invited to the Launch Years Initiative (LYI) New England Convening! On the afternoon of October 3rd and the morning of October 4th, LYI teams from Massachusetts, Maine, and Rhode Island will come together to collaborate with representatives from Connecticut, New Hampshire, and Vermont to explore the ways in which states in the region are addressing math pathways in the high school and postsecondary spaces. Areas of work may include defining alternatives to precalculus or calculus after Algebra 2, modernizing Algebra 2, high school to college transition courses, college math placement reform, developmental education reform, identifying and developing high-quality instructional materials, and other topics.

We are hoping you can send 3-4 folks, representing both the high school and postsecondary sectors, to Providence, Rhode Island, for this convening. If you have more than 4 interested individuals, I would be happy to schedule a zoom with you and your colleagues to determine who would be the best fit to attend the convening. The Dana Center will hold hotel rooms for the night of the 3rd, provide meals during the event, and will reimburse travel (within The University of Texas at Austin rules).

More details coming soon! Feel free to contact me (joan.zoellner@austin.utexas.edu) if you have any questions,

Joan
