NCSL Student-Centered Learning Commission

Westin Boston Waterfront – Stone Room
Boston, MA
August 6, 2017

Meeting Agenda

This meeting is made possible with generous support from the Nellie Mae Education Foundation.

The NCSL Student-Centered Learning Commission is a bipartisan group of state legislators studying policy options, obstacles and recommendations to help states move forward with systems that support student-centered learning.

Examples of student-centered learning principles include:

- Learning is personalized
- Learning is competency-based
- Learning takes place anytime, anywhere
- Students have ownership over their learning

State Legislators and the Future of Learning

As the world around us changes at an unprecedented pace, state legislators have an opportunity to innovate now to create a future that supports every learner. During this second meeting of the NCSL Student-Centered Learning Commission, Jason Swanson, Futurist and Director of Strategic Foresight at KnowledgeWorks, will present a glimpse into the future of readiness. Commissioners will consider how the forces of change shaping the future of work will affect how readiness for life, work, and further learning is defined, and what the implications are for education.

- Jason Swanson, KnowledgeWorks
