Policy Discussion Luncheon: Simplifying Regulatory Burdens for Economic Growth: Strategies for Cutting Red Tape

Attendance is mandatory | All attendees welcome | Seating by State
As the country faces rising costs and inflation, the burden of complying with administrative regulations remains a significant concern for innovators, entrepreneurs, and private enterprises. Across the nation, Republican state policymakers are tackling these challenges by cutting red tape and implementing regulatory reforms to create a more business-friendly environment. We will hear from lawmakers as they share their insights on eliminating unnecessary regulations and simplifying compliance processes to support economic growth and entrepreneurship. State-specific initiatives include sunset commissions, rules review processes, annual legislative packages, regulatory sandboxes, and other approaches for implementing light-touch regulations. Join us for a productive discussion on how these efforts aim to enhance state competitiveness and attract new investments through a more streamlined and efficient regulatory framework.
